PRESENTS

THE LINK BETWEEN CANCER & HEART DISEASE An Afternoon with Brian Peskin, B.Sc. Saturday, September 20th, 2008 at 4pm

The Pine Street Foundation is pleased to welcome Brian Peskin, B.Sc. to Marin County to speak about his new book, The Hidden Story of Cancer.

In this engaging talk, Peskin will challenge conventional wisdom about cancer and heart disease prevention, arguing that the last half-century of research has, unfortunately, been misguided and yielded few important findings as a result.

With a background in engineering from MIT and a passion for the sciences, Peskin has meticulously studied the work of Nobel Prize-winner Otto Warburg, MD, PhD, on the metabolism of cancer. Peskin will explain Warburg's discovery of cancer's prime cause in understandable, practical terms. Particularly compelling is Peskin's discovery of the connection between cancer and heart disease.

Through a thorough understanding of Warburg's research and by "connecting the dots" in a unique way, Peskin will persuasively defend Warburg's findings, describe how normal cells become cancerous, and will make recommendations for how people can successfully defend against this process. Peskin's approach is now being utilized by physicians around the world.

*"The Hidden Story of Cancer is an important work for those who are unfamiliar with Warburg's theories. Its program deserves serious study by doctors and patients contemplating alternative cancer therapies." — Jonathan Collin, MD, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher of Townsend Letter (August/September 2007)*
